A box of coins supposed to have been buried by the Tories during the revolu-tionary period was recently unearthed by laborers working on one of the eastern railroads, but as the coins were about two centuries old they would probably have no more value today than many of the remedies compounded for stomach, liver and bowel disorder. It is therefore necessary, if you want to recover your health, to be careful in the selection of a medicine that will restore the appitite, purify the blood, and cure headache, indigestion, dyspepsia. constipation or liver and kidney troubles. You will make no mistake if you try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters because it will positively cure these diseases. Hundreds of people have voluntarily testified to this fact during the past fifty

President Morley of Bankers' Association Assails Tax Laws.

IN HIS ANNUAL ADDRESS

Believes In Exemption From Taxation of Credits-Lawmakers to Blame, According to His Opinion-Common People the Real Capitalists.

Pointe Aux Barques, Mich., June 18. -The treat of Wednesday's session of the Michigan Bankers' association was the lucid, trenchant discussion and criticism of the state's taxation system by President George B. Morley, who has made a special study of the subject. The bankers thought so well of the suggestions made by their president that a committee was appointed to consider their submission for indorsement by the bankers as the views of the association on taxation.

Congressman William Alden Smith of Grand Rapids was introduced by President Morley as the one to respond to the welcome for the Michigan bank

It was 10 o'clock when Boos' Saginaw band marched briskly into the dancing pavilion, playing a catchy air. The bankers obediently fell in behind and filled the hall, many ladies also at tending the session.

Fred H. Potter of Saginaw gave what the bankers declare was one of the most graceful, and at the same time most forceful, welcoming ad-dresses heard in the fifteen years of Michigan bankers' conventions.

President Morley followed with his annual address. In part he said:

"Perhaps no subject has ever occupied the minds of statesmen and students of political economy more than that of taxation, and the study of no subject, I think I am safe in saying, has resulted in a wider divergence of opinion and a greater conflict of conclusions.

"As the individual lives of this political association are of equal value in the eyes of the law, so the burden of public defense rests equally upor all, regardless of wealth or position; but the burden of public expense-as individuals differ widely in the possession of wealth-is imposed, or is intended to be imposed, upon property itself, rather than upon the individual, that is, to be imposed upon individual possessions of property. The problem is a plain and a comparatively simple one could this principle be constantly kept in view-that is, of the aggregate visible property of a political community a certain per cent of it is found to be necessary for the protection of all of it; in other words, for the public expense, and this percentage is so levied and collected.

"That the purchaser of a piece of property should be taxed on its full value, while the seller, who holds a credit obligation or mortgage on the property, should be required to pay nothing, is a proposition that strikes the average voter as one savoring of the rankest inequality, so that in his attempt to avoid this seeming injustice by taxing credits as though they were actual property, instead of being something representing property already taxed, he works a real instead of an apparent inequality by doubling the amount of actual property in existence in every such case, with the necessary result of double taxation to that extent. "It is one of the truisms of political economy, that upon whomever or whatever a tax may be imposed, the tax is ultimately paid by the consumer.

"The fault, as may be readily per ceived, is not with the fundamental principle underlying our system of taxation, but with our lawmakers playing fast and loose with this principle.

The Real Capitalists. "It is an established fact that the common people are the real capitalists of a country like ours. It is their small deposits collected in the banks, vast in their aggregate, that the industrial world depends upon for support; therefore, any measure that encourages these deposits directly promotes general prosperity and an increased employment of labor, and any measure that discourages tnem, like taxing individual deposits, directly retards prosperity and decreases the employment of labor. "It may be asked what superior advantage would result, either to the bank or to the state, under the proposed system, over that existing now, when the total assessed valuation of money and other property in the possession of the banks would promise to equal the amount assessed against the capital stock of the banks under our present system. My reply to this is: That it would remove the confusion and inequality that now exists, by applying the same system of taxation to banking corporations that is now applied to other corporations; that is. it would make all of our measures of taxation conform to the one general or fundamental principle of taxation."

Price Revisions to Be Noted Along Certain Lines, Says Bradstreet. New York, April 4.-Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says: Retail trade is expanding, favored by springlike weather, and jobbers report re-orders from retailers increasing, while collections note some improvement. Some price revisions are to be noted, particularly in raw wool, coal, pig iron, copper, coffee and sugar on the Atlantic seaboard. Flour is slightly higher on the excellent export business. The industries, particularly iron and steel and lumber, are active the country over. The spring crop of strikes is equal to the average, though most of them have appeared a trifle earlier, particularly in the building trades. The activity in lumber is a notable feature just now, the only complaint being of deliveries not being sufficient to meet current demands. Snoe manufacturing is in rather better shape than previously.

Wheat, including flour, exports for the week ending April 2 aggregate 3,130,974 bu, against 2,401,987 last week, 4,446,917 in this week a year ago and 4,698,693 in 1901. Wheat exports since July 1 aggregate 175,579,-489 bu, against 198,845,624 last season and 155,666,391 in 1900. Corn exports aggregate 2,832,068 bu, against 3,618, 210 last week, 330,531 a year ago and 2,990,541 in 1901. Mine Explosion, but No One Hurt. Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 4 .- An explosion of gas occurred Friday afternoon in No. 5 mine of the Lehigh & Wilkes barre Coal company, situated in the southern part of this city. As soon as the report was sent out the greatest excitement prevailed, from the fact that this mine is one of the most gaseous in the Wyoming valley. There were rumors that fifty men were entombed by the caves and wreckage that had occurred, and in less than a half hour an immense crowd gathered about the head of the shaft and the usual scenes ensued about the colliery. There were, however, one hundred men working in that portion of the mine, and for a time it was feared they were lost. The rescuing parties. however, found them all within a half hour and none were burned or in any way injured.

The Use of Arm. Heart Trouble. Could Not Eat, Sleep

or Walk. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

Cured Entirely.

"If it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Remedies I would not be here to write this letter. Two years ago last June I lost the use of my left arm, could not use it and could only move it with the help of my right hand. My heart was so weak I could not sleep nights for smothering spells. I was out of sorta all over and could eat nothing. I grew so weak that I could not walk without staggering like a drunken man and my home doctor said he could do nothing for me. I was in so much pain I was almost wild. I could not take morphine nor opium as they made me worse. So I got to thinking about Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and the more I thought about it the more I wanted to try them. I wrote to the Dr. Miles Medical Co. for advice which I followed to the letter. I can say today that I am glad I did as I am awell woman now; can work and can walk two or three miles and not mind it. I can also use my arm again as well as ever. You do not know how thankful I am for those grand medicines Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Nervine. I think Dr. Miles' Remedies are the best in the world, and if I should get sick again I should take the same course. The remedies also helped my daughter Vida so wonderfully that I should have written you before to thank you, but I wanted to be sure that the cure was permanent, which I now know to be the case."—Mrs. Frank Loomis, Allen, Mich.

The Lion's Hear. Major Austin, writing of his travels in central Africa, says: "The grandest, the most awe inspiring, the most tremendous voice on earth issues from the throat of that king of beasts, the lien. It is difficult to describe that mighty roar bursting out into the silence of the night and seeming to shake the very ground beneath one. It makes one feel petty, insignificant, of no account, when his majesty voices his satisfaction at having dined well on some poor unsuspecting antelope which has allowed itself to fall under the clutches of that ponderous paw. The men huddle together; a deadly stillness follows; there is a catch in one's breath, and it is with a sense of relief a whisper perhaps of 'Simba shiba' (the lion is satiated) arises, and conversation gradual-

The Dogs of the Red Men.

When Columbus discovered America, he found that the Indians possessed dogs. They were direct descendants of the wild coyotes of the plains. You can find a beautifully mounted group of coyotes in a glass case at the National museum, a male, female and young one. Their resemblance to certain domesticated dogs is very striking.

Mothers lose their dread for "that terrible second summer" when they have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house. Nature's specific for bowel complaints of every sort.
